

Does where you live affect your education?

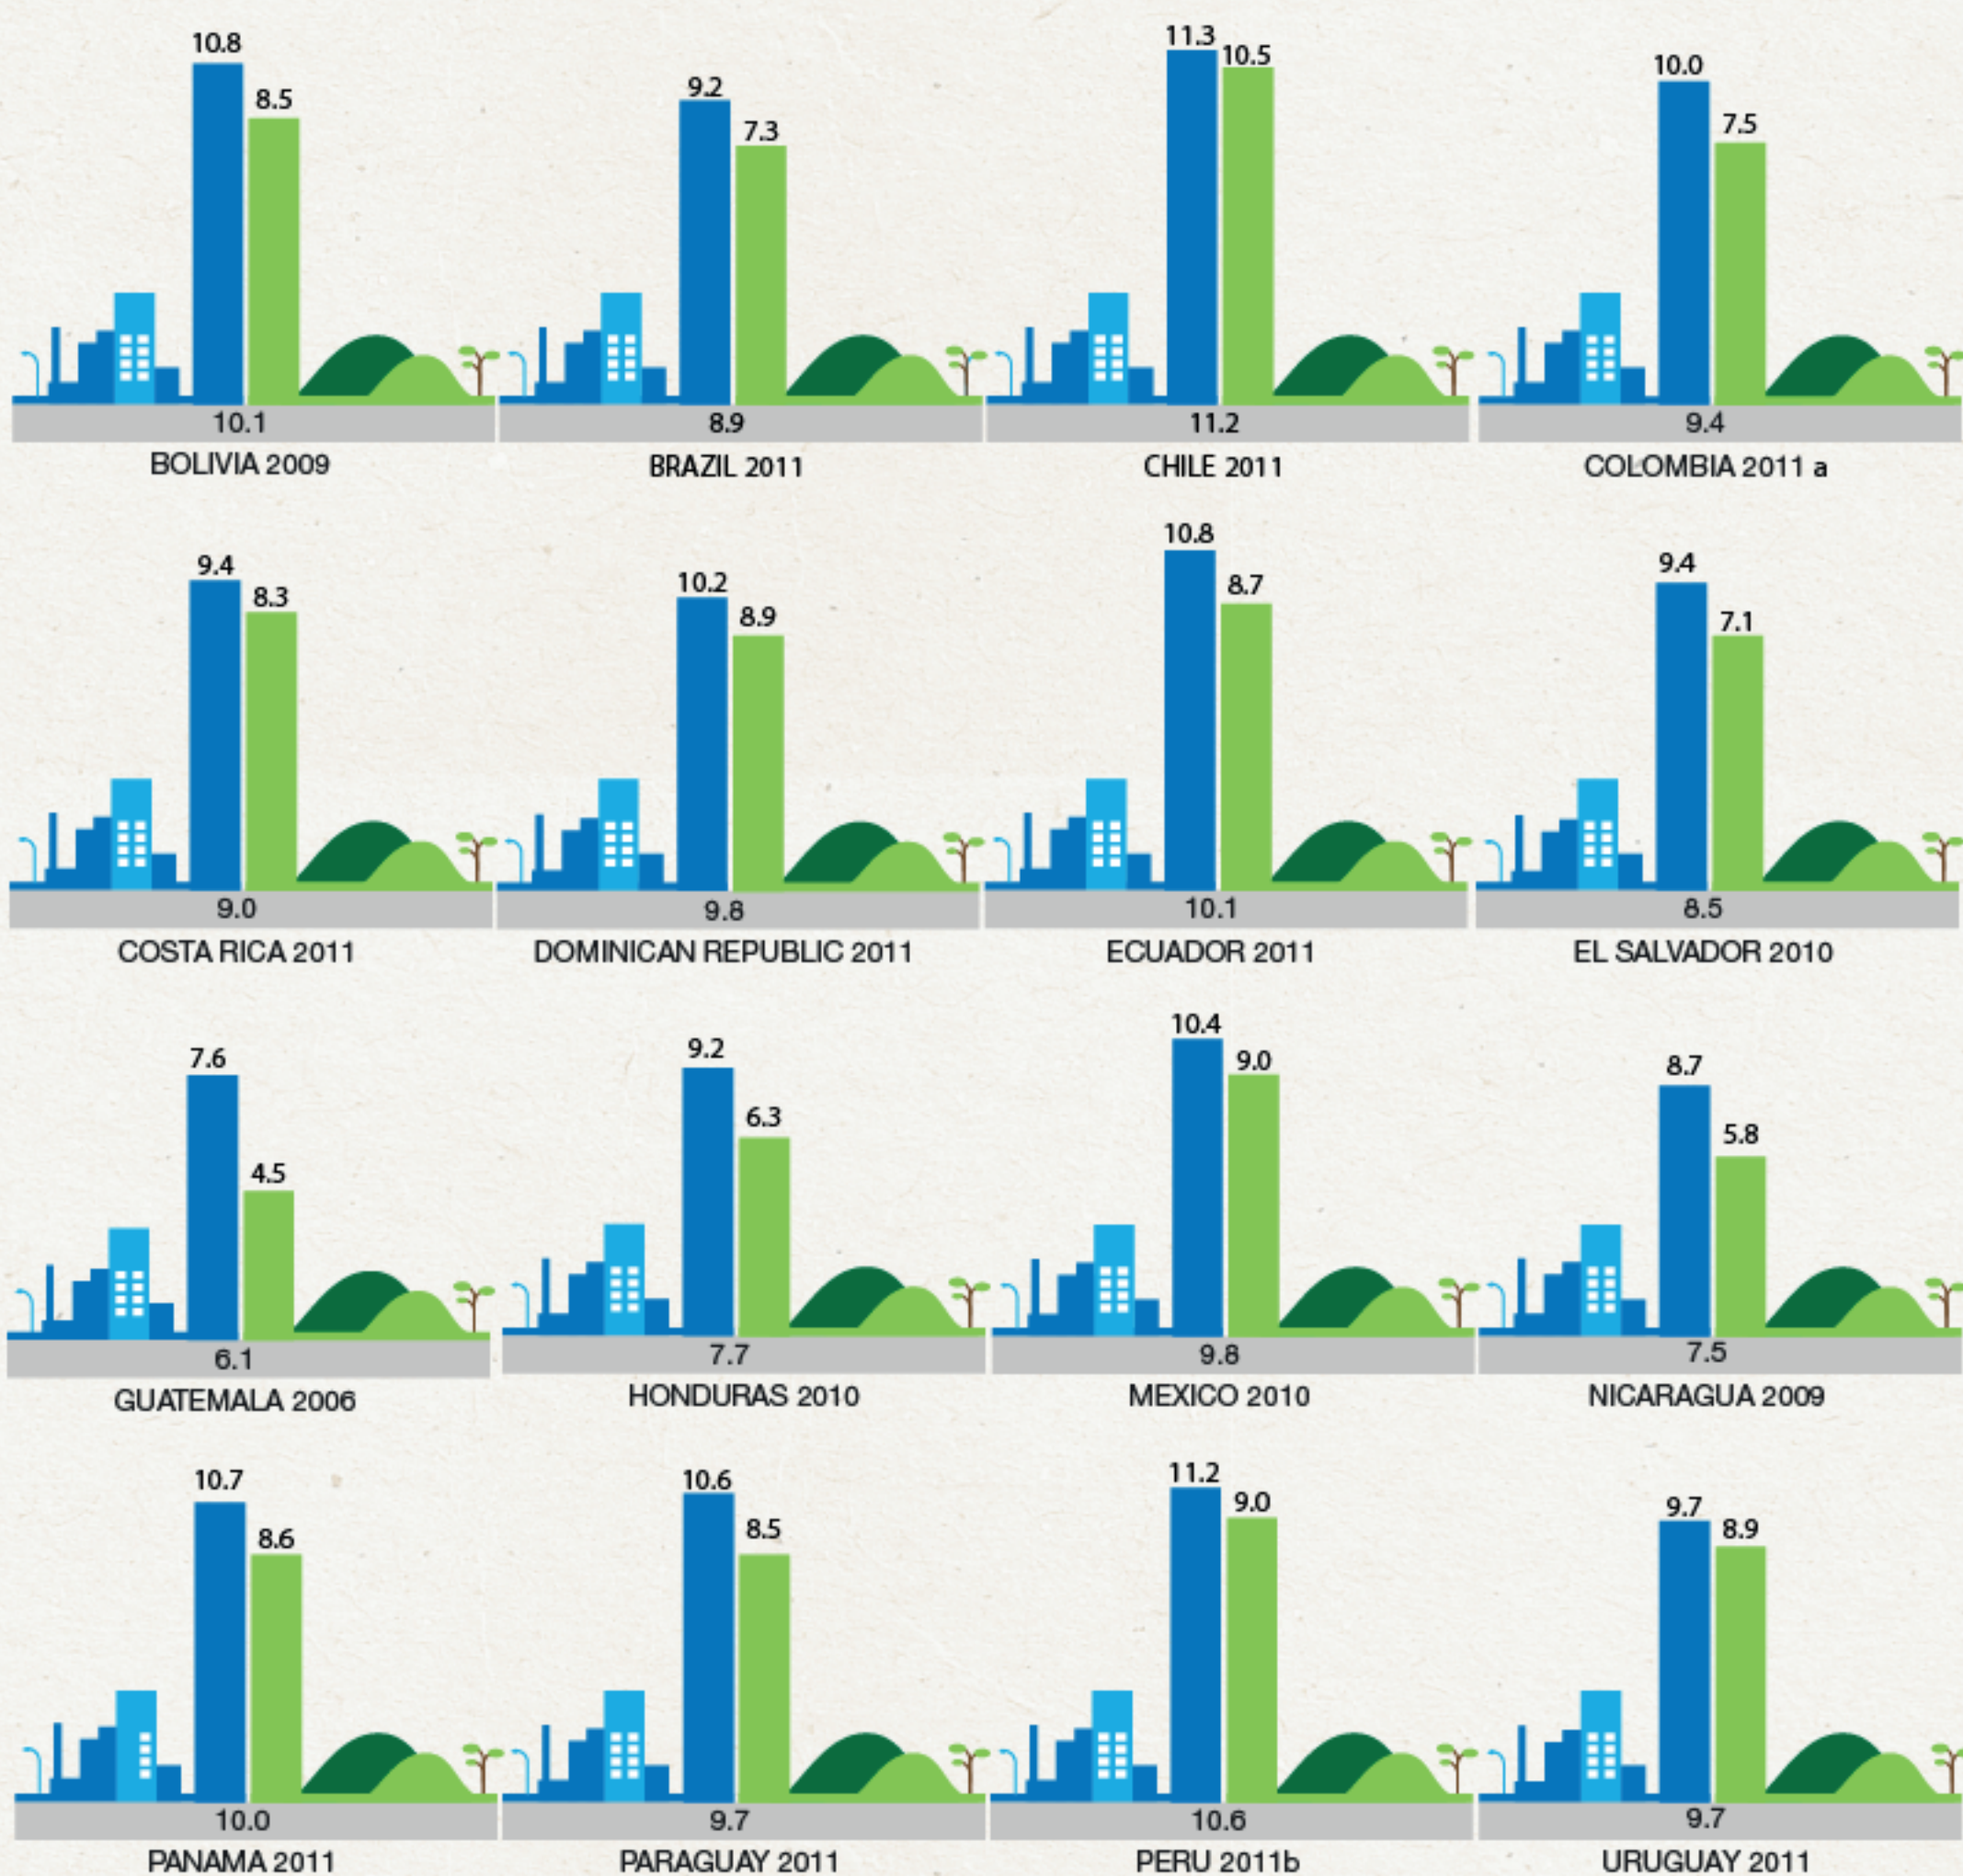

GRADUATE XXI
www.graduatexxi.org

Average years of schooling of the population aged 15-24 by geographic area

Urban Average

National Average

Rural Average

Notes

a – Since 2002, data for urban and rural areas are not strictly comparable with those of previous years because of methodological changes.
b – Since 2004, data are not strictly comparable with those of previous years because to methodological changes by the INEI.

Source

ECLAC: Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean: Statistics and Economic Projections Division, Social Statistics Unit, on the basis of special tabulations of data from household surveys conducted in the respective countries.